At Cloudera, our culture, our ethos, is centered on our values. We're here not only because we're experts at what we do, but also because we hold these values in common:

- Equality - We strive for equality; collaborating to ensure diverse perspectives are represented in each conversation to understanding how representation at all levels matters.
- Commitment - We are committed to high performance and commitment to excellence: to our customers, our communities, our teams, and ourselves.

- We believe in taking calculated risks; to push past 'what's always been done' in order to find what was never thought possible.
